Accidents

If an accident happens to anyone on the premises (employees, volunteers, outside contractors, visitors, children) the accident, however slight, must be reported to the lead volunteer tutor or the manager.

The qualified First Aider (manager) will normally be responsible for giving First Aid. However, in their absence, other members of the core staff should administer First Aid. In the event of a medical emergency, staff should immediately call an ambulance and report such action to the lead volunteer tutor or the manager, as soon as is practical.

A fully stocked first aid kit will be provided and maintained in the meeting room. This will be the responsibility of Tim Wilson (Lead Volunteer Tutor).

The Accident Book located in the meeting room should be used to record any injury, work related disease, or dangerous occurrence at the Care Farm. The following details must be recorded:

- A brief description of the nature of the event, injury or disease.
- Place where accident happened.

- Action taken.

If the accident results in a major injury or a dangerous occurrence (e.g. the breaking of bones, hospitalisation for more than 24 hours or death) the lead volunteer tutor or manager will immediately report the incident under the rules of RIDDOR.

An accident happening to a visitor, or an outside contractor, or any accident resulting in an employee being absent from work, will be investigated by the manager and a written record will be kept.

It will be the responsibility of the lead volunteer tutor to inform the manager of all incidents recorded in the Accident Book, however minor.

The purpose of putting all accidents and incidents in the Accident Book is not simply to comply with the law. It is done primarily to ensure that the manager is aware of those incidents and can put in place measures, where practical, to prevent their recurrence.

A Near Miss Book will be used to record any near misses and appropriate action taken if necessary. All near misses must also be reported to the manager and/or the lead volunteer tutor who will take action if necessary.

Hand washing/sanitising stations are located around the Care Farm and staff/volunteers/visitors will be reminded to wash hands frequently, as soon as possible after handling/touching animals and particularly before eating/drinking. Staff/volunteers/visitors will be encouraged to wash hands with soap and water rather than using hand sanitiser wherever possible.

Rats: Rats are particularly dangerous as they transmit diseases, notably Weils disease, through their urine. If rats (dead or alive) are seen to be present, the part time tutor/agricultural adviser should be notified immediately, so that the necessary steps can be taken for their eradication.
